

THE ROMAN ARMY-EQUIPMENT

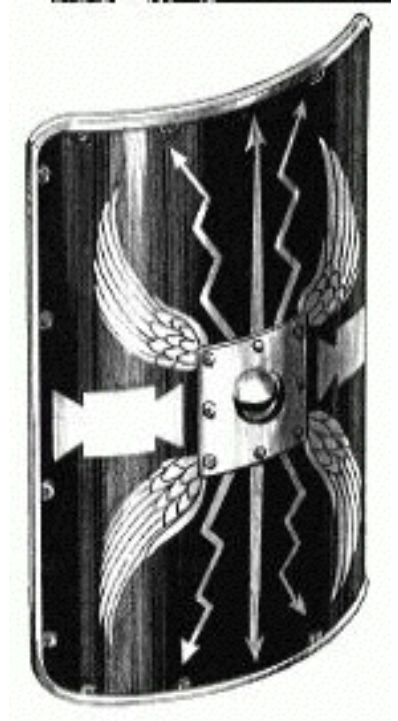

CLCV 3810/3810H: Roman Life

helmet (galea)
sword (gladius or ensis)

segmented body armor (lorica)

shield (scutum)

funeral monument: soldier with pilum, gladius, scutum and crested galea modern illustration (did you guess?) of a legionary soldier

modern illustration of a signifer or standard bearer

testudo (relief from Trajan's column)

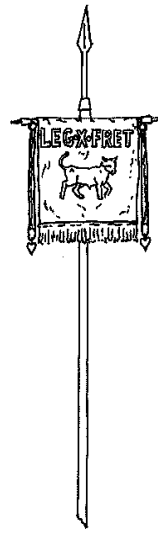

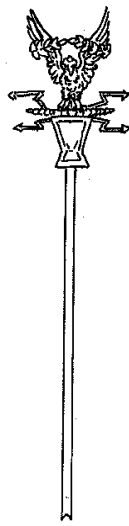

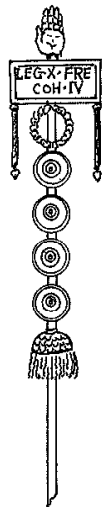

testudo (modern illustration)

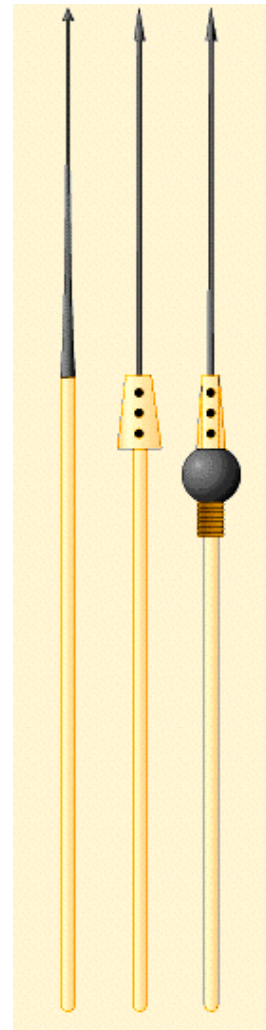

an onager (modern illustration)

left: a signum or aquila right: a vexillum
Roman military standards (ancient relief)

left: a signum for a cohort middle: an aquila for a legion right: a vexillum for a legion

left: a standard pilum
middle: a light pilum
right: weighted pilum

hasta: the older
type of legionary
spear